Wine of Origin

Grapes for wine making are grown in approximately 100 official "appellations" covering over 94 545 ha, stretching from the Northern Cape to the Klein Karoo in the east. Since the introduction of The Wine of Origin system in 1973, wine making areas have been divided into regions, districts and wards. The smallest category of the Wine of Origin (WO) is Estate, which means single farms of which there are about 203 (SAWIS June 2016). Some producers choose not to register as an estate. There are 3029 primary grape producers and 546 wine cellars crushing grapes. Single vineyard designation is the next level to be recognized. This is still to be approved by authorities, although you will see many wine labels alluding to single vineyard source.

Our wine list indicates the origin of the grapes used to produce this specific wine. Where a region rather than the district is mentioned this may indicate that grapes are sourced from various districts within that region. Likewise, where grapes are sourced from different regions in the Western Cape, then the origin will be given as Western Cape. The map below shows some of the important regions, districts and wards of the Western Cape. (Data-SAWIS 2017)

CHAMPAGNE

"I drink it when I'm happy and when I'm sad. Sometimes I drink it when I'm alone. When I have company I consider it obligatory. I trifle with it if I'm not hungry and drink it when I am. Otherwise I never touch it, unless I'm thirsty." - Madame Lilly Bollinger
