

Good steak meat is the basis

American meat in Monarch is certified USDA. Besides other things it has to meet following conditions:

- meat has to have medium or higher grade of fat marbling this applies to about 30% of slaughtered beef cattle. Marbling provides juicy and extremely tasty eating experience
- meat is grade "A", which is the youngest state of adulthood – this gives better colour, texture, firmness and softness to the meat. Optimal age of beef cattle to slaughter is about 12 to 14 months
- yield grade of beef cannot exceed grade 3, where grade 1 refers to the leanest and grade 5 to the fattest beef cattle – which means, that the final product does not contain excessive amount of subcutaneous fat

USDA is a certification issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. USDA steaks in Monarch come from Angus beef cattle.

Age and maturation of meat

Meat used for grilling must be distinguished by its crispness. This is affected by suitable cattle farming, breed, feed, style of slaughtering, processing and most importantly length of maturation. Post-mortem stiffness occurs on the 4th day after slaughtering. Therefore, you can eat meat right after the slaughtering or after it matures. To loosen the stiffness, whole halves of cattle are hanged for 1 to 2 weeks. In order to get the most tender meat, the beef undergoes dry aging process.

Meat aging:

Dry aging – meat matures in special fridges at a temperature of 0-1°C with a humidity of 75%. At the bottom of the fridge are bricks from Himalayan salt which cause the humidity. Our meat matures 30 days to reach the best tasting experience. Meat becomes softer in taste, is crispier and gets rid of excessive water.

Wet aging – meat matures for up to two months in vacuum wrapping at a temperature of about 2°C. It does not have as much effect on the taste experience as dry aging.

Which steak to order

Beef meat is divided into front and rear cuts. For steaks we use the rear part cuts, that comes from larger muscles, which causes better tenderness.

Filet mignon – lean and juicy steak. This is a small strip of flesh under the spine, which is the softest, most delicious and most expensive part of beef.

Rib Eye – steak from the front part of back, from the neck up to about half of the animal. Meat is marbled and is therefore the juiciest part of beef with distinctive taste. Right after Filet mignon it is the softest part of beef.

New York strip – steak from the rear part of back, from the middle to the tail. Lean part of juicy meat for a good price

T-bone – gourmet steak, you get to taste two different parts of beef, New York strip and Filet mignon, that are attached to a "T" shape back bone, each from a different side

Porterhouse – is also made up of two different cuts of beef attached to a bone. It delivers a mouthwatering combination of tender, succulent filet mignon and rich, flavourful New York strip. It includes more tenderloin steak than T-bone, along with a larger New York strip steak.
