

WINE LIST

AN UNUSUAL JOURNEY, WHERE THE WINE IS MUCH MORE THAN JUST WHITE OR RED

BUBBLES OVER EVERYTHING

There are bubbles and bubbles: fizzy ones, impertinent, they spread in your mouth and you can't stop them. A great option to get the evening started or to end with a bang. There are also rounder bubbles, which come to the surface calmly, with elegance and less haste. They could even accompany you throughout the whole meal. There are bubbles also in red, we certainly don't want to forget them. The options are endless - you just have to decide.

ITALY: THE SOUTH AND THE ISLANDS

Viticulture in the south of Italy has deeply rooted origins: in Sicily, for example, it was already widespread at the time of the colonies of Magna Graecia and at the end of the 18th century Marsala was the best known Italian wine in the world. From the calcareous plains of the Salento to the impervious, volcanic soils of Etna, this paragraph groups some of today's most exciting growers who have followed traditions and are still making wine the "old school" way.

ITALY: NEBBIOLO AND FRIENDS

Piedmontese wine has reached internationally recognized qualitative heights in recent years. The grape responsible for this and that has best expressed the potential of these territories is Nebbiolo, but other indigenous varieties such as Barbera, Dolcetto and Moscato find here they're happiest expression. This section represent a tribute to the most iconic of Italian wine regions and the different styles of its most representative variety: Nebbiolo.

ORANGE IS THE NEW WHITE

We certainly could not have left out a section dedicated entirely to skin contact wines aka Orange wines. Considered by many the world's oldest way of making wine, Orange wine is the result of making "white" wine following the same techniques one would apply to make red - leaving the skins on. Although a very ancient method of winemaking, skin-contact wine only made a serious comeback in recent years before becoming the singular most significant wine movement of the last decade.
