Recently one of the world's most influential sommeliers published an "Atlas of taste", a big event in our little world. Surprisingly we already listed about 80 percent of the winegrowers featured in the atlas. At first this made us proud, that we can keep up with the current movements and trends. Later it made us think...

Woodstockholm's 3-star theme menu is a perfect opportunity for looking back at the classics. Rediscovering unfashionable and grand vin that simply is good but not in fashion. This is probably where there are bargains to be made.

After a quick poll we unanimously stated Gewürtztraminer as the most untrendy wine. Low acidity, high alcohol, creamy texture and a slight bitterness! It was easily 10 years ago we last worked with GW.

One GW that affected me was a Hengst Grand Cru from the Alsace pinnacle producer Zind-Humbrecht. Thick, slightly sweet and lush but still some freshness from the limestone hidden in the clay. Truly a great wine, if served in half glasses.

We will be serving half glasses from some vintage bottles of Zind-Humbrecht. Ask for the one that is open tonight, some are sweet some are dry some are, both.
