

Black Cow

I would like to begin by acknowledging the land we are on lutruwita (Tasmania) with deep respect and the traditional owners of this land, the palawa people. The palawa people, for many years, referred to this land as palanwina lurini kanamaluka meaning 'the town near river Tamar'. I pay my respects to elders past and present and stand for a future that profoundly respects and acknowledges Aboriginal perspectives, culture, language and history.

We welcome you to peruse this list with as much fervour as our team and I have putting this wine list together. Nothing excites me more than finding a wine that is remarkably balanced and will go well with char-grilled grass-fed Tasmanian beef, whether it's judging at a wine show, a tasting with a winemaker or at the dinner table with my family.

We're incredibly fortunate to be located in arguably lutrawita's best wine region, the biggest and oldest with a variety of wine makers producing different styles. The Tamar Valley has rich and bold Pinot Noir's, delicate Riesling's, complex and nutty sparklings. But of course, we adore the rest of this special island from the East Coast to the Derwent Valley and the Huon and showcase the best each region has to offer. Many are a little off the beaten track and a little rarer than drops you'll find in the bottle shops.

Tasmania is find its feet with craft distillation with gin's, vodka's, liqueur's and whiskys to go alongside our craft beers from Beaconsfield right through to the Bruny Island. Of course, fermentation isn't just limited to booze and we have a handful of non-alcoholics for those who'd like a soft drink that isn't just a sugary drink such as local kombucha.

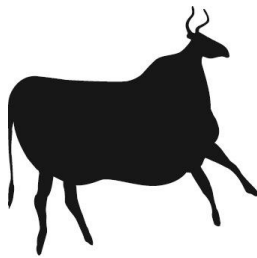

Craig Will, Executive Chef/Co-owner's food has evolved in to refined, simple yet distinctive Tasmanian cuisine. Along with his team Nabin Gurung (Head Chef) the kitchen produces a menu which is exciting to pair with our local wines alongside incredibly special and thoughtful produce from our region.

We encourage you to venture out of your comfort zone, let our knowledgeable team push your palette and you may just discover something you will love.
