Winter 2024-25 Edition

As of December 27, 2024

"Following through on my father Leslie Rudd's pledge, PRESS is the home to the largest collection of Napa Valley wines in the world. A drinkable library which tells the intriguing story of California viticultural history, our sommelier team continues to grow and expand our list of unique and rare wines, each bottle telling the story of the vintage and the people behind the label."

Samantha Rudd

Wine Spectator Grand Award

World of Fine Wine's Global Award "Best Regional Wine List"

PRESS was born in 2005 as a restaurant whose ethos is exemplifying the food, wine, and people of the Napa Valley. Over the last 20 years the wine program has grown to its current iteration, representing nearly 2,700 unique selections from Napa Valley and its vintners. More so, it represents American history. Despite the small fraction of California wine that originates in Napa Valley, the legacy of the region has been, and continues to be, profound.

We invite you to explore Napa Valley's history in the pages that follow, highlighting our 11,000-bottle wine collection, the largest of any Napa Valley wine collection in the world.

Schramsberg

Though Schramsberg was not the first producer of sparkling wine in Napa Valley, the consistent quality of their bubbles for nearly 60 years has cemented their legacy in the wine world. It may surprise some to know that Schramsberg began by producing still wines.

Founded in 1862 by the German immigrant, Jacob Schram, Schramsberg is only the 2nd commercial winery to be founded in the Valley. At the height of its production in the 1800s, Schramsberg produced over 12,000 cases annually. Despite their success the estate stopped producing and fell into disrepair following the death of Jacob in 1905 and the property's sale in 1912.

Reincarnated by the Davies family in 1965 after years of transient ownership, the Davies immediately began revitalizing the property and tapped Dmitri Tchelistcheff to guide their new beginnings. With their love of Champagne in mind, the Davies were keen on reimagining the domestic sparkling wine market, for which their hard work soon paid off – In 1972, Schramsberg became the first American wine to be served at an official state event by a US President.

Schramsberg is undoubtedly a vital piece of Napa Valley's history and a sparkling wine producer renowned on a global scale.

“Off the Beaten Path”

As recently as the 1970s the mix of white grape variety plantings in Napa Valley was drastically different, dominated by grapes such as Riesling, Chenin Blanc, French Columbard, Sylvaner, and more. Following the Judgment of Paris in 1976, coupled with improved winemaking technology and the rise of iconic California Chardonnays, the Valley has evolved dramatically.

The following white wines, made from once popular grape varieties currently in danger of disappearing (from Napa Valley), exist either as projects of passion, a response to an evolving climate, or an homage an earlier time, each representing a unique story and place in our cellar.

Riesling

One of the world's noble grapes, Riesling is renowned for its ability to translate place of origin, maintain acidity across a range of production styles, with the best examples aging for several decades. It finds a well-suited home in the cooler pockets and higher elevation sites of Napa Valley. Unfortunately, its well-suited home includes a time many decades ago.

The 1968 Napa Valley Agricultural Report lists Riesling at just under 20% of Napa Valley's white grape acreage. Today, that number has dwindled to .006%, accounting for under 60 of the 9,000 acres of white grapes. Despite the grape's promise of maintaining freshness in a warming world, it remains to be seen if that trend will include Napa Valley.

Gewürztraminer

A noble grape of Alsace, Gewürztraminer is prized for its ability to connect with food, namely through its intense aromatics and rich, spicy palate. Though it finds a well-suited home in the cooler pockets of Napa Valley, its popularity was and continues to be second to its Alsatian companion, Riesling. Acreage is negligible, produced primarily in other parts of the state. Yet, the few produced in the Valley are of exceptional quality, including the incredibly old vines used to produce the dry, delicate iteration at Stony Hill Vineyard.

Chenin Blanc

A native grape to the Loire Valley in France, Chenin Blanc's provides some of the world's greatest examples of still, sparkling, and dessert wine from regions such as Vouvray, Savennières and Quarts de Chaume. Countries outside of France have taken note of the grape's ability to produce wines with elevated acid and long aging potential, including South Africa and Argentina.

Napa Valley was once included in the conversation, having several thousands of acres planted as recently as the mid-20th century - That number has dwindled down to less than 10 acres. Renewed interest from a new generation of winemakers and consumers, along with the nature of Chenin's ability to maintain acidity in a warming climate, offer a glimmer of promise for the grape's future in Napa Valley.

Sauvignon Blanc

One of the parents of Cabernet Sauvignon and the 2nd most planted white grape in Napa Valley, Sauvignon Blanc enjoys a wide variety of styles from lean and crisp to rich and tropical. Under the right conditions, Sauvignon Blanc in Napa Valley may be harvested late, occasionally mirroring styles more consistently found in the dessert wine regions of Bordeaux (see pg. 196).

Chardonnay

Chardonnay, the most planted white grape variety in Napa Valley, surged in popularity during the 1980s, growing from 1,600 acres in 1976 (the same year as the Judgment of Paris) to 5,860 acres in 2020. With the kaleidoscope of soils, microclimates, and winemaking philosophies, the range of Chardonnay styles in Napa Valley has never been broader than today.

Kongsgaard

5th generation Napa winemaker, John Kongsgaard, made his mark in the Valley with the release of the “unfiltered” Chardonnay while at the winemaking helm of Newton Vineyards.

Upon founding his own label in 1996, he took the Burgundian approach a step further, implementing techniques such as long, ambient yeast fermentation and minimal sulfur that resulted in sensual, powerful wines. John’s longstanding relationship with Carneros growers

Lee Hudson and Larry Hyde has provided some of the best possible raw material for his expert winemaking acumen.

Stony Hill Vineyard

Towards the tail-end of a career in advertising, Fred and Eleanor McCrea purchased an old goat farm in 1943 that they later converted to a vineyard. The McCreas' love of Burgundy led them to be early adopters of the Chardonnay grape in a post-WWII era that was largely focused on abundant-yielding grape varieties. Eventually, the winemaking bug bit Fred and he began producing a small amount of wine from the estate.

Over the decades Fred received advice from and mentored some of Napa Valley's great winemakers, one of which was Mike Chelini. After joining Stony Hill in 1971, Chelini produced some of Napa Valley's most mineral-driven and elegant white wines from Chardonnay, Gewürztraminer, and Riesling grapes, holding the winemaking position for over 45 years.

Pinot Noir

Pinot Noir marks its beginning in Napa Valley during the latter half of the 1800s, following its arrival from France in the 1850s (...usually in a suitcase). It found its home with icons such as Inglenook and Stanly Ranch. Pinot Noir's popularity would eventually wane during two World Wars, resurfacing amidst the development of Carneros in the 70s and 80s.

Since then, Pinot Noir has steadily occupied just over 2,000 acres of Napa Valley land. Predominantly centered in the cooler, breezy southern end of the Valley, there are several outlier pockets of Pinot Noir found elsewhere in the Valley, including Atlas Peak, Coombsville, Rutherford and Spring Mountain. One of the first grapes in Napa Valley to have its site selection more closely match an appropriate microclimate, the quality of Pinot Noir in the Valley is exceptional and every bit as deserving of attention as its Bordeaux variety counterparts.

Rhône Varieties

Rhône varieties, and more specifically Grenache, Syrah and Mourvèdre (‘GSM’), once enjoyed a more popular time in Napa Valley during the late 19th century. Most acreage, however, succumbed to phylloxera in the 1890s and future vineyards contained virtually no sign of the trio. Much the same can be said about this history throughout California.

Eventually, Rhône varieties would reemerge throughout the state (and to an extent, within Napa Valley) during the 1980s and 90s after the founding of the Rhône Rangers. Some of the devotion in Napa Valley may be attributed winemakers emulating the grapes’ origins, a desire to buck the trend of Bordeaux varieties, or capitalizing on these grapes’ ability to thrive in warm climates. Regardless, these grapes maintain a devout following in Napa.

“Mixed Blacks”

On the heels of phylloxera and World War I, Prohibition was the straw that broke the camel’s back for many Napa Valley wineries. A few that survived were able to pivot and take advantage of a loophole in the 18th amendment. Surprisingly, wine production in Napa Valley increased during this period. Another consequence was the grape variety makeup in Napa Valley. With the end destination for most grapes being a train ride away, the necessity of grapes surviving the trip became paramount - Enter the “mixed blacks.”

Mixed Blacks, referring to hardier red grapes with thick skins that were generally strewn about (“mixed”) in the vineyard, including Zinfandel, Carignane, Petite Sirah, Alicante Bouschet, and more. Their generous yields and knack for survivability on long voyages led to a surge in popularity during Prohibition. Some of these original vineyards still exist today, though most have been replanted to more popular (and lucrative) Bordeaux grape varieties.

Charbono

For much of the 1800s and first half of the 1900s, Charbono was prolific throughout Napa Valley. Originally thought to be Barbera, it was brought to the Valley by European immigrants, gaining a reputation for high quality through the lens of Inglenook winery who won numerous awards for their Charbono on the world stage. Inglenook even went so far as to create the Charbono Society, holding lavish black-tie affairs for members to taste and purchase annually. Despite Charbono’s success and fanfare, Cabernet’s popularity won out, and now less than 40 acres of Charbono remain in Napa Valley. Charbono is a resilient grape, stubbornly maintaining its tannin and acidity even in warm, dry years. Time will tell if that stubbornness keeps the vines in the ground.

Judgment of Paris

No event in the history of American winemaking was more impactful than the 1976 Judgment of Paris. The event was so important that the Smithsonian Institute now houses bottles of the original wines, the 1973 Chateau Montelena Chardonnay, and the 1973 Stag's Leap Wine Cellars "SLV" Cabernet Sauvignon.

Steven Spurrier, a British wine enthusiast with a wine shop in Paris, agreed to celebrate America's 200th birthday with a comparative blind tasting between the best Chardonnays & Cabernet Sauvignons of France and California. Graded entirely by French judges in a blind setting, two USA wines earned the top honors for the event. Despite several French judges protesting the results in disgust, the mark had been made – California was a serious and capable wine producing region.

Several reenactments have taken place, including a 30-year retaste of the original wines - California won.....again.

Cabernet Sauvignon

Despite the diverse makeup of planted grape varieties heading into the 1970s, Cabernet Sauvignon commanded a large percentage of Napa Valley grape plantings by 1976 (4,500 of 11,577 acres). Following the Judgment of Paris, increasing investment in Napa Valley (both domestic and foreign), and the rise of consumer wine liaisons such as the Wine Advocate and Wine Spectator, plantings of the grape surged to what is now 23,500 acres out of 36,000 acres of red grapes in Napa Valley. Despite the climate being well-suited to many grape varieties, the harmony of Napa Valley and Cabernet Sauvignon is undeniable.

Cabernet Sauvignon is the heart of the PRESS wine collection, representing over 1,600 unique Cabernet Sauvignon selections dating back to the 1930s. Through the myriad unique vineyard sites, winemaking personalities, great vintages, and time periods, few other grapes can produce a wine that acts as a living time capsule. The following pages tell the story of how this singular grape transformed a farming community into a world class wine and tourist destination.

Abreu

Few individuals can claim to have impacted as many top estates in Napa Valley as David Abreu. A steward of the land who is deeply connected to the vineyards he farms, Abreu has developed and worked with vineyards in Napa Valley for over four decades. Abreu has counted some of the Valley’s most famous wineries as clients, such as Colgin, Kenzo, Screaming Eagle, Staglin, and his own label.

Ad Vivum

Chris Phelps is a humble force in Napa Valley. With 40+ vintages to his name, he counts several iconic wineries between Bordeaux and Napa Valley on his resume. Phelps spent the early portion of his career in Bordeaux working directly under Christian Moueix and Jean-Claude Berrouet, the owner and winemaker, respectively, of Chateau Petrus. Shortly after his time in Bordeaux, Phelps found himself back in Napa Valley, first at Dominus Estate, followed by Caymus, Swanon, and his own label, Ad Vivum, with the 2008 vintage.

Ad Vivum produces just one wine: a Cabernet Sauvignon sourced from a few rows in the Sleeping Lady Vineyard in Yountville, a coveted vineyard in the region that Phelps became intimately familiar with during his 12-year tenure at the helm of Dominus Estate. His Bordeaux-influenced career and keen sense of balanced winemaking create wines that stand in contrast to rich, powerful interpretations of Cabernet Sauvignon.

Araujo

Bart & Daphne Araujo fell upon the Eisele Vineyard in 1990 on guidance from a real estate broker, purchasing it from Milt and Barbara Eisele. After splitting the 1991 harvest with Joseph Phelps, the Araujos assumed full control, stewarding the legendary vineyard with some of Napa Valley’s greatest winemakers. The team at Araujo produced some of the greatest American wines of the 90s and 2000s before selling to the Pinault Group in 2013.

Not ones to rest on their laurels, the Araujos immediately started Accendo Cellars with former Araujo winemaker, Francoise Peschon.

Beaulieu Vineyard

Few other figures in Napa Valley history carry the significance of vintner Georges de Latour and winemaker André Tchelistcheff.

A Russian Civil War soldier left for dead; André fled to Yugoslavia with his family after the war. After a hailstorm destroyed his entire poultry farm, he moved to France and would eventually study viticulture and enology.

During that same period, Georges de Latour kept his winery afloat during Prohibition in the United States but came to a crossroads following the Repeal.

As time would have it, Georges was connected to André and didn't hesitate to bring his expertise to the Valley. This choice proved monumental, both for Beaulieu Vineyard and American winemaking. During André's tenure in Napa Valley, he mentored several generations of California's most iconic winemakers and produced some of the most sought-after wines in the history of Napa Valley. The impact of André's time in Napa Valley can't be emphasized enough.

BOND

(see also: Harlan, Promontory)

Bill Harlan is a visionary beyond his time. While many successful entrepreneurs think years in advance, Harlan thought centuries in advance. A significant piece of Harlan’s long-term plan is isolating unique vineyard sights that have consistently proven remarkable quality.

Though Napa Valley will likely not ever have an official classification for “growths” or “grand crus” in the way of European counterparts, this failed to deter Harlan. Under the BOND label, 5 “grand cru” single vineyard Cabernet Sauvignons are bottled from sites Bill recognized during his time as vintner of Merryvale winery.

Caymus

The Wagner family traces its history back over 3 generations of farming in the Napa Valley, first purchasing their 70-acre Rutherford property after immigrating from Alsace in 1906. Originally walnut and prune farmers, Charles made the leap to wine grapes in the mid -60s. The first vintage was produced in 1972, dubbed “Caymus” after the Rancho Caymus land grant upon which the vineyard sits, a reference to Native Americans who once inhabited Napa Valley. Caymus counts two iconic winemakers, Randy Dunn and Chris Phelps, prior to Chuck re-assuming the helm in 2003.

Chappellet

Donn and Molly Chappellet, pioneers (and trademark owners) of Pritchard Hill, recognized early on the potential of mountain fruit. The very first vintage of Cabernet (1969) was proclaimed “one of the greatest California Cabernet Sauvignons ever produced” by Robert Parker. It is no surprise that several of Napa Valley’s current icons spent time crafting the estate’s wines, including Philip Togni, Cathy Corison, Tony Soter, and the current, longest-tenured, Phillip Titus. With hillside exposures at elevation ranging from 1,000 to 1,800 feet, Chappellet is one of the great mountain estates in Napa Valley and beyond.

Chateau Montelena

Best known for a shocking victory over the French in the 1976 Judgment of Paris, Chateau Montelena unexpectedly became an American legend with just their 2nd vintage of production under Barrett ownership.

Originally founded in 1882 by Alfred Tubbs, the winery enjoyed many successes during the late 18th century, only to suffer the same fate as many others following Prohibition. It would eventually be revived and find its way into the ownership of James Barrett, a lawyer with minimal experience in the wine industry. On the recommendation of then winemaker, Mike Grgich, the winery produced Chardonnay to generate cash flow while the new Cabernet vines matured. The rest, as they say, is history.

Colgin

Colgin Estate was founded in 1992 by Ann Colgin, a former Sotheby’s UK team member with extensive experience in fine wine auctions. On a chance visit to Napa Valley, Ann met the husband of a then relatively unknown winemaker, Helen Turley. Helen became Colgin’s first winemaker and immediately brought the wines global recognition.

The estate sits between 1,100 and 1,300 feet up on Pritchard Hill, west of the ravine that separates them from Continuum and Chappellet. Most of the vines sit on an east-facing slope in the heart of a wind tunnel, keeping vines cool but challenging them to ripen. The result is wines with concentration, freshness, and the structure to age for decades.

CONTINUUM

Continuum

Continuum (noun): a continuous sequence in which adjacent elements are not perceptibly different from each other, although the extremes are quite distinct.

Tim Mondavi, son of Robert Mondavi, is one of Napa Valley's longest-tenured winemakers, beginning at Charles Krug and Robert Mondavi as a teenager, and crafting some of the great Mondavi and Opus Ones wines throughout that time. Continuum was formed in 2005 following the separation from Robert Mondavi winery, purchasing the old Cloud View estate, and gradually evolving it over two decades. The first 100% estate (Sage Mountain Vineyard) vintage was 2012. With the winery construction completed in time for the 2013 vintage, it also marked the 100th anniversary of Robert's birth and Tim Mondavi's 40th year of winemaking.

Corison

Cathy Corison is a pioneer by many definitions. Nearly denied entry to the UC Davis Viticulture & Enology Program and subsequent refusals from winery jobs because of her gender, Cathy persevered, having made wine at some of the greatest estates in the Valley, including Chappellet, Freemark Abbey and Staglin.

The Kronos estate lies less than ½ mile from Press, producing wines from their vines grown on one of the few alluvial fans in Napa Valley. Many of the vines used in production today have been in production since the first vintage in 1987. “Kronos,” first produced in 1996, is sourced from the property’s oldest vines.

DALLA VALLE

Vineyards

Dalla Valle Vineyards

Perched 400 feet up in the hills above eastern Oakville, Dalla Valle occupies a unique band of rocky, volcanic soils. Though Gustav and Naoko Dalla Valle had very different intentions than winemaking before producing their first vintage in 1986, the results have crowned Dalla Valle as one of the jewels of Oakville. Several Napa Valley icons have lent their efforts, including Joe Cafaro, Heidi Barrett, Tony Soter, Philippe Melka, and Andy Erickson.

In 2017, the winemaking torch was passed to Naoko's daughter, Maya Dalla Valle, bringing experience from abroad at Petrus, Latour and Ornellaia.

Detert Family & MacDonald Vineyards

The Detert Family past is a rich story that intricately weaves American and Napa Valley history, specifically the history of To Kalon Vineyard in Oakville.

Following the purchase of a 50-acre plot in 1954, Hedwig Detert and her children tended the vines planted by Martin Stelling, eventually selling fruit to Robert Mondavi that was routinely used for their Reserve Cabernet.

The great grandchildren, comprising the Garretts and the MacDonalds, now oversee the wine production of Detert Family and MacDonald Vineyards wines, respectively, from their portions of the original vineyard.

Diamond Creek Vineyards

Al and Boots Brounstein are eminent figures in Napa Valley’s rise in the latter half of the 20th century. Despite receiving much criticism for doing so, the duo pioneered mountain fruit Cabernet, they were the first to bottle based on soil type, and they were the first producer to break the “$100 barrier” with their 1978 Lake Vineyard Cabernet. Until its sale in 2020, Diamond Creek had just two winemakers: Jerry Luper and Phil Steinschiber .

Diamond Creek has consistently produced 3 wines (sometimes 4) each vintage from vineyard blocks resting on distinct soil types: Gravelly Meadow from a rocky riverbed at the base of the property, Volcanic Hill from a south-facing, sunshine-filled slope opposite the winery, Red Rock Terrace from a north-facing, iron-rich slope, and the rare Lake Vineyard from a small 1-acre parcel.

Dominus

(see also: Ulysses)

Christian Moueix is among few French winemakers who understood early on the potential of Napa Valley. As the owner of several iconic Bordeaux estates, namely Château Pétrus, there certainly was no need to begin a new venture across the globe. His pursuit is yet further acknowledgment of the potential quality of the Valley's wines.

Dominus, founded in 1983, is in very small company within Napa Valley in that it does not accept public visitors. The wines, produced from 45+ year old dry-farmed vines, only reach guests through retail and restaurants.

Dunn Vineyards

Randy Dunn has long been dubbed the “king of Howell Mountain.” Following his graduation from UC Davis, Randy became the original winemaker for Caymus and then Pahlmeyer, the former from whom of which he purchased his Howell Mountain estate. Rising over 2,000 feet in elevation, Dunn Vineyards has long been considered a benchmark for Howell Mountain Cabernet, producing intense, powerful wines, the original vintages (1979) of which continue to age beautifully to this day.

Frog's Leap

John Williams, a pioneer of dry farming and organic viticulture, got his start working with the legend, Warren Winiarski, at Stag's Leap Wine Cellars. After helping bottle the 1973 Cabernet that went on to win the Judgment of Paris, John went on to helm the winemaking at Spring Mountain Vineyards before founding Frog's Leap in 1981 with Larry Turley of Turley Cellars.

The estate lies in the heart of Rutherford, counting Quintessa and Caymus as neighbors. The red barn on the property is one of the last remaining wooden properties in Napa Valley that pre-dates the 1900s. In tandem with their sustainable philosophy, John remodeled the property in 1994 to operate completely off the grid. In addition to being a model for sustainability, John's wines are models of balance and elegance, routinely aging for decades.

Harlan Estate

(see also: BOND, Promontory)

For nearly forty years, Harlan Estate has been committed to creating a California "First Growth" wine estate. Founded in 1984 by William (Bill) Harlan as his first of several wine projects, the estate consists of 240 acres ranging from 225 to 1,225 feet elevation in the western hills of Oakville.

Director of Wine Making, Bob Levy, has worked with Harlan since 1983 when Harlan took part in founding the Merryvale Winery.

Heitz Cellar

Family owned since its founding in 1961, Heitz Cellar's legacy runs as deep as the roots throughout the Napa Valley. Joe Heitz ushered in Napa Valley's modern era, with Napa Valley's first vineyard-designated Cabernet Sauvignon, the renowned Heitz Cellar Martha's Vineyard, in 1966. Fifty-eight years of the Heitz family's dedication to viticulture, stewardship, and classic winemaking, maintained the winery's notoriety as a benchmark amongst its peers in California and Europe.

Inglenook

Inglenook is one of few Napa Valley wineries founded in the late 19th century to survive Prohibition. During its 150-year existence, the estate has counted several figures integral to the Valley such as Gustav Niebaum and John Daniel, Jr, both of whom elevated the quality of the wines and Napa Valley during their respective tenures. The “Cask” bottlings of the 40s and 50s are considered among the greatest Napa Valley wines of the 1900s.

Despite its successes, Inglenook experienced challenges with different owners after Daniel was forced to sell. The winery ultimately landed in the hands of Francis Ford Coppola in 1975, who worked to rebuild Inglenook to its earlier recognition. Philippe Bascaules, former estate director at Château Margaux, has been at the helm since 2011.

Joseph Phelps (1927-2015)

Joseph Phelps Vineyards

A former construction company owner, Joseph Phelps found a 2nd career in wine after his company built the original Souverain winery (now Rutherford Hill), starting his own self-named label in 1973. In the short 40+ years before his passing, Joe brought an extraordinary level of heightened attention and notoriety to the Valley, beginning with bottling the first “proprietary blend” in California, the 1974 Insignia. Over the course of his remaining years, Joe grew the winery’s vineyard holdings across Napa Valley, ensuring a consistent source of some of the Valley’s greatest fruit to contribute to this blend. These sources included the iconic Eisele Vineyard in Calistoga, which Phelps bottled from 1975-1991 before the Araujo family assumed complete ownership.

Mayacamas Vineyards

Mayacamas Vineyards is one of the oldest wineries in Napa Valley, founded in 1889 as Fisher Vineyards by John Henry Fisher. Its modern era began with the arrival of Jack and Mary Taylor who purchased the property in 1941 from the Brandlin Family. The Taylors spent 3 decades elevating the property in partnership with California winemaking icons such as Philip Togni (Philip Togni Vineyard) and Bob Sessions (Hanzell).

The next era began when the Taylors sold Mayacamas to Bob Travers in 1968. Travers, as owner and winemaker, held one of the longest winemaking tenures in Napa Valley history, crafting the wines from 1968 to 2013. This included the 1971 vintage that was showcased in the Judgment of Paris. The estate, now under the partnership of owner, Joey Schottenstein, and winemaker, Andy Erickson, continues to produce intense, stalwart, pure wines representative of the Mount Veeder AVA.

Opus One

Opus One is the true epitome of a blend of two worlds: a timeless, classic Bordelaise approach to viticulture and winemaking in Baron Philippe de Rothschild, combined with the gritty, optimistic American approach in the venerable Robert Mondavi. Founded by the two partners in 1979 across Highway 29 from Robert Mondavi, Opus One was an instant success with the great To Kalon Vineyard as the base of its production. Since then, several globally renowned winemakers have been at the helm of Opus One, including Robert's son, Tim Mondavi and Lucien Sionneau. Michael Sillacci has overseen all winemaking since 2001, the first winemaker to do so on his own.

Philip Togni Vineyard

Philip Togni has a remarkable history of winemaking and is currently the longest tenured winemaker in Napa Valley, having worked his first vintage at Mayacamas Vineyards in 1959. As one of the first students under Émile Peynaud at the University of Bordeaux, Togni came to Napa Valley a seasoned winemaker, having worked both in Bordeaux and Chile prior.

Togni would go on to become the inaugural winemaker at both Chalone and then Chappellet, producing the 1969 Cabernet Sauvignon, a wine many consider among the greatest Cabernet Sauvignons ever produced in Napa Valley.

Perched 2,000 feet up on Spring Mountain, Philip and his wife, Birgitta, produced the first vintage in 1983. Today, the youngest vines used in production are 25 years old. Philip was joined by his daughter, Lisa, in 2000 following her experience in Australia and Bordeaux at Chateau Léoville-Barton. Philip, Birgitta and Lisa still make up the entirety of the Philip Togni Vineyard team, except for one longtime cellar worker.

Promontory

(see also: BOND, Harlan)

Promontory is the culmination of several decades of persistence of William Harlan, founder of BOND and Harlan. Purchased in 2008, Promontory sits above the western hills of Oakville with property line adjacent to Dominus, Blankiet, Martha’s Vineyard, Dominus and BOND/Harlan. The current winery site occupies the previous property of Vichon, La Famiglia di Robert Mondavi and Diamond Oaks.

Promontory is a departure in style from its counterparts, due in part to its utilization of larger aging vessels and a unique vineyard management approach with its team. The primary difference, however, lies in the location; 70-acres of vines at 1,200 feet lying on metamorphic rock, producing wines of a rustic, mineral nature with rugged tannin.

Ridge Vineyards

Despite its location in the Santa Cruz Mountains, the impact of Ridge Vineyards on Napa Valley over the past 50+ years absolutely cannot be overstated. Former head winemaker, Paul Draper, oversaw production at the Monte Bello facility beginning in the late 60s until his retirement in 2016. Paul began several relationships with Napa Valley vineyards during his tenure, such as Langtry Road, York Creek Vineyard, and the unicorn bottling of Eisele Vineyard, only produced in 1971. The 1971 Monte Bello was included in Judgment of Paris, placing 5th. It would go on to win the 30th anniversary tasting in 2006, cementing Paul's already well-established global legacy in winemaking.

Robert Mondavi

Robert Mondavi is one of the most enigmatic characters in the history of Napa Valley and, with his wife Margrit, was near single-handedly responsible for bringing worldwide attention to the Valley and its wines. The charismatic vigneron founded his own winery in Oakville in 1966 after parting ways with his family at Charles Krug Winery. Over the next 40 years Robert and his family would go on to build a globally recognized brand with wines to match, including several domestic and global partnerships.

Rudd Estate

Rudd Estate sits at the intersection of Silverado Trail and Oakville Crossroad, counting several iconic wineries as neighbors: Dalla Valle, Screaming Eagle and BOND. It also lies at the intersection of a crucial period, blending the evolution of the 80s and 90s with the powerful, polished era of the early 21st century.

Founded by Leslie Rudd in 1999, the winery has quietly produced some of Napa Valley's most exciting, thorough wines. With notable winemakers such as David Ramey, Frederick Ammons, and current winemaker, Natalie Bath, Rudd continues to tame the intensity of eastern Oakville and tightrope the balance between power and grace.

Seavey

Seavey is one of Napa Valley's oldest properties, though it was originally purposed as a cattle ranch when it was founded by Charles Volper in the 1870s. Winemaking and vine growing did not become a focal point until William Seavey purchased the property in 1979. The Seaveys initially sold their Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon grapes to other wineries after planting in the early 80s. Much of the property is south facing, receiving ample sunshine that is cooled by winds funneled out to Lake Hennessey.

Seavey produced its first vintage in 1990. Renowned winemaker, Philippe Melka, has assisted the property since 1995, while Jim Duane has been boots on the ground since 2011.

Spottswode

Purchased by the Novak family in 1972, Spottswode has a deep history dating back to the late 1800s. The family reunited two parcels of the original estate, combining the Schonewald estate with the old Kraft winery estate, producing their first vintage in 1982. Spottswode in its current iteration has been home to several iconic winemakers, including Tony Soter, Pam Starr and Rosemary Cakebread. The current property, 37 of 45 acres of which are planted, continues to produce honest wines under the guidance of winemaker, Aron Weinkauf.

Stag's Leap Wine Cellars

Warren Winiarski emerged from the mentorship of the most iconic names in Napa's history; André Tchelistcheff & Robert Mondavi. Warren was the winemaker behind the bottle of 1973 Napa Cabernet that challenged and won in the first ever competition against the Europeans in the 1976 Judgement of Paris.

Cabernet Sauvignon has remained the dominant focus in each blend over the years with Warren's acquisition of two vineyards, Fay & Arcadia, in the late 1980s & 1990s. Through renewed ownership the quality standard has stayed true to its roots and remains an important piece of Napa Valley history.

Staglin Family

Garen and Shari Staglin purchased a 50-acre parcel of land owned by the granddaughter of Georges de Latour (Beaulieu Vineyard founder), producing their first vintage of Cabernet Sauvignon in 1986. Originally the land was converted from prune orchards to vines by André Tchelistcheff in the early 1960s while he was at Beaulieu Vineyard.

Today the Staglin's own nearly 62 acres of prime land in the heart of the Rutherford appellation. Their 51 acres of vineyards are located on coveted bench land soils. These deep, gravelly, brownish soils were formed during millions of years because of erosion and run off from the nearby Mayacamas mountains. As a result of this soil type, its excellent drainage, and the climate, this is excellent terroir for growing Cabernet Sauvignon.

Zeitgeist Cellars

Zeitgeist Cellars is a collaboration between husband-and-wife winemaking team, Jennifer Williams and Mark Porembski. Collectively they have made or currently make some of Napa Valley's most iconic brands over the past two decades, including Anomaly, Arrow & Branch, Pahlmeyer, Spottswoode, and more. Their style occupies the "sweet spot" of Napa Valley winemakers; it champions fruit and structure without manipulation, covering the entire spectrum of flavor that Cabernet Sauvignon has to offer. Sleeping Lady, a standpoint vineyard in the heart of Yountville, is their most powerful bottling, with its cooler location ensuring a longer growing season.

Topaz Winery

The late Jeff Sowell fell into the founding of Topaz Winery in 1980s. Upon the request of his client, Ann Macauley, Jeff sought to create a Napa wine modeled after Sauternes from her Sauvignon Blanc vineyard. Unfortunately, Ann did not live to see the wine bottled. The 1986 bottling was an immediate success and, just a few years later, the 1989 vintage provided another perfect vintage for botrytis. Jeff produced 12 vintages from 1986 through 2007, only the years which provided the climatic conditions for appropriate botrytis cinera.
