Italian Sparkling Wines

Every region in Italy produces sparkling wines. The most common and widely recognized is Prosecco, the name of a wine made in Valdobbiadene and Conegliano in Veneto. In this case, the bubbles are attained by the Charmat Method, a process that creates a second fermentation in a large tank before the wine is bottled under pressure. Another popular style is Franciacorta, the name of a small area in Lombardia specializing in growing Chardonnay, Pinot Bianco, and Pinot Nero. The wine is made in the Metodo Classico, or the Champagne Method, where the second fermentation takes place in the bottle. Although these are the two most famous examples of Italian sparkling wine, other regions also achieve great results.

Champagne

Grower-Producers

Grower-Producer, or Récoltant-Manipulant, is a term used to describe those who bottle wine exclusively from the vineyards they farm themselves. This practice may not seem like a radical idea, but it is far from the norm in Champagne. In many ways, these wines are the antithesis of most Champagne on the market. Instead of blending, many producers use only one variety, from one vineyard or village. In addition to demonstrating a pure expression of the land, Grower Champagne often offers tremendous value. Whenever possible, we list disgorgement dates.

Côte de Blancs

Pascal Agrapart is known for producing Blanc de Blancs with tremendous power and concentration, but one of his most interesting wines is Complantée, which comes from one vineyard in Avize and is a cofermentation of Chardonnay, Pinot Blanc, Arbanne, Petit Meslier, Pinot Noir, and Pinot Meunier. His vintage range begins with Minéral, a focus on the chalky soils found in the Côte de Blancs. Avizoise comes from two vineyards in Avize with heavy clay soils and Vénus is a chalky parcel in Avize that is named after the first horse to plow the vineyard. Experience is made from '100% grapes', meaning no chaptalization, dosage, fining, or filtering, and the second fermentation is achieved by adding unfermented grape must from the following harvest. Pascal's obsession with working in as natural a manner as possible results in fascinating wines that are above all, utterly delicious.

Côte de Blancs

Anselme Selosse is one of the most influential figures in Champagne and is largely responsible for inspiring an entire generation of young growers to stop selling their family's grapes to the négociants and start making site-specific wines loaded with character and personality. The winery is best known for Chardonnay and makes a number of Blanc de Blanc bottlings. Initial is a blend of three successive harvests and spends roughly five years on the lees. Version Originale is the same except, the fruit is sourced from steeper slopes which yield more powerful wines and the dosage is always lower. Perhaps his most famous wine, Substance is a true solera that was started in 1986. Throughout the mid-2000's, Selosse launched six single-vineyard bottlings. In addition to Avize, Cramant, and Le Mesnil-sur-Oger in the Côte de Blancs, vineyards in the Pinot Noir-dominated villages of Aÿ, Mareuil-sur-Aÿ, and Ambonnay round out the range. Selosse's wines are unlike any others in Champagne and Anselme's constant drive to experiment means drinkers will never run out of intellectually stimulating wines to discover.

Côte de Blancs

Pierre Péters closely associated with the village of Le Mesnil-sur-Oger and one of its most prestigious vineyards, Les Chétilons. The wines show off the finesse, elegance, and intense minerality of Côte de Blancs Chardonnay by fermenting in stainless steel. The Cuvée de Réserve is based on the most recent harvest but 30-40% of the wine comes from a perpetual cuvée started in 1988. Oubliée is the same wine with one additional year of lees aging. L'Esprit is meant to be a snapshot of the vintage in a broad sense, as it is blended from Le Mesnil, Avize, Oger, and Cramant. Les Chétilons has been bottled since 1971, at which time it was the estate's Special Club bottling, yet the name of the vineyard didn't appear on the label until the 2000 vintage. The unique Rosé is partly a saignée of Chardonnay and Pinot Meunier that are macerated and fermented together. The newest addition to the range is a combination of Les Chétilons and the perpetual cuvée. The labels designed by Rodolphe's son and a mere 1000 bottles are released each year. Pierre Péters wines are among the best expressions of fresh, racy Côte de Blancs Champagnes in the market.

Champagne

Négociant-Manipulant

The vast majority of Champagne houses fall under this category. These producers are often much larger than Grower-Producers, and are usually easily recognizable brands. Although many do own some of the vineyards they source fruit from, Négociant-Manipulants are best known for their ability to blend Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, and Pinot Meunier from a wide variety of vineyards and vintages to achieve a consistent house style. From the entry-level bottlings to the tête de cuvées, these Champagnes can be some of the most delicious and compelling wines in the world.

White Wines of Italy

Valle d'Aosta

Valle d'Aosta is a small Alpine region in Northern Italy, bordering France and Switzerland high up in the Alps. While it is technically part of Italy, the feeling here is French. Petite Arvine and Prié Blanc are the most famous indigenous varieties, and Chardonnay is also widely planted.

Piemonte

Known more for its red wines, Piemonte is home to several indigenous white varieties. Arneis makes soft, floral wines from the sandy Roero hills. The Cortese grape, famous in the town of Gavi, is often fresh and fruity, and Timorasso yields rich, textural whites from Tortona.

Liguria

Liguria is a small region that stretches from all the way from Tuscany to the French border. Vermentino and Pigato are the most common white varieties. When grown near the coast, they produce clean, fresh, savory whites that pair wonderfully with seafood and vegetables.

Trentino-Alto Adige

This bilingual Alpine region produces some of Italy's best white wines. Fresh, aromatic whites like Kerner and Riesling are reminiscent of the their Austrian neighbors to the north, while Pinot Bianco yields rich, textured whites that can easily compete with Grand Cru wines from Alsace.

Friuli-Venezia-Giulia

Friuli can be broken down into a number of distinct subzones. Carso is a thin strip of land just north of Trieste, whose limestone soils make intensely mineral whites. Collio straddles the border with Slovenia and makes rich, structured wines that are incredibly balanced. And being the warmest of these three subzones, Colli Orientali can produce ripe, opulent wines that belie the region's notoriously cold climate.

Veneto

Soave is made in the hills outside the town of Verona. The classic formula is a blend of Garganega and Trebbiano di Soave, although these days, most growers are focusing on the former. Garganega is known for its rich texture and concentration, so it has no problem standing alone.

Toscana

As in Piemonte, the focus in Tuscany is on red wines. The most interesting wines tend to come from the coast, where the cooling influence of the sea helps retain acidity and freshness. As Tuscany has very little history of stand-alone white wines, many of the most successful wines are blends.

Umbria

Umbria's most famous white wine is Orvieto, a blend based on the Grechetto grape. It can combine freshness and texture to make impressively ageworthy wines. Trebbiano Spoletino is a distinct variety that is often vinified with skin contact to accentuate its natural richness and power.

Lazio

Just like Umbria, Lazio is best known for Orvieto, whose western boundary spills into the region. In addition to Grechetto, indigenous aromatic varieties like Bellone and Malvasia Puntinata have produced compelling dry wines in the volcanic hills just south of Rome for many centuries.

Marche

Verdicchio is the main white variety of Marche. Typically medium in body with very little fruity flavors to speak of, Verdicchio is always a wine with great acidity, and it usually displays intense minerality when young. This gives way to a more savory side with age, as nutty and herbal flavors emerge.

Abruzzo

Trebbiano is Abruzzo's main white variety and is often vinified on its skins to showcase its texture. At its best, it can be one of Italy's most age-worthy white wines. Also found in Abruzzo is Pecorino, which makes fresh wines with crisp acidity.

Campania

Known for its volcanic soils, Campania is one of Italy's most important white wine regions. Fiano di Avellino offers an attractive scent of hazelnuts, pears, and honey, while Greco di Tufo displays minerality and citrus notes, and Falanghina shows an aromatic character with fresh stone fruit flavors.

Sicilia

Mount Etna is home to Sicily's most important white variety, Carricante. Because it is usually grown at high elevations in volcanic soils, Carricante often makes crisp, mineral-driven wines that can be somewhat reminiscent of Chablis. Grillo, Inzolia, and Zibibbo can also make interesting wines.

Sardegna

Vermentino is the most widely-planted white variety grown in Sardegna. It thrives in the northeastern corner of the island in an area called Gallura. The vineyards are planted very close to the coast, so many of the wines have a salty freshness to complement Vermentino's crisp, zesty citrus flavors.

Domestic White Wines

Chardonnay

Chardonnay is the most significant white variety, produced successfully in many parts of the world in many different styles, from the succulent flavors only found in Burgundy, to the base wine for sparkling wines in Italy and Champagne, and to the ripe and tropical style of Australia and South Africa. Ever since the now famous 1976 tasting in Paris, when Californian wines beat their French counterparts in a blind tasting, California's white wines have been considered some of the best in the world. But these wines are still searching for an identity, as can be seen in the changing styles produced in the state. Evolving from the rich, buttery, and tropical style of the past, we now see a more diligent use of oak and a greater respect for the terroir.

Sauvignon Blanc

Sauvignon Blanc's versatility is evident from the multiple ways it is employed, whether as an aperitif, as a perfect companion to light fish dishes, or paired brilliantly with goat cheese. The use of oak varies among producers, and can take away from the grassy and herbaceous nature of the grape.

Barbaresco

Until Domizio Cavazza founded the Produttori del Barbaresco in 1894, the wines of Barbaresco, despite significant differences, were all sold as Barolo. Although roughly one third the size of Barolo, Barbaresco wine styles vary widely between vineyards and producers. The wines of Barbaresco are generally regarded as being a shade softer and less powerful than those of Barolo, and require only two years of oak aging to Barolo's three. Important to note about both Barbaresco and Barolo is the difference between traditional and modern producers. Traditionalists despise technology, employ long fermentations, and age their wines in very large, old casks. Modernists prefer short fermentations, small French barriques, and use technology to extract more flavor. While these styles are quite different, both create wonderfully distinct wines of great character and depth.

Barbaresco

Bruno Giacosa is an icon in Piemonte, having solidified himself as one of the truly legendary traditional producers of the area. While most choose to make wines in Barbaresco or Barolo, Giacosa has been releasing great wines from both zones since the 1960's. Though his talents are countless, his ability to recognize a superb fruit source stands tall above the rest, as he did not buy his first vineyard until 1982. He has made wine from many of the great vineyards in Barbaresco, but over the years he purchased parcels in Asili and Rabaja, and purchased fruit from Santo Stefano through 2011. In particularly exceptional vintages, Giacosa releases certain wines as 'Red Label Riservas,' these wines combining richness, complexity, and power with incerdible elegance and finesse.

Barbaresco

Angelo Gaja changed winemaking in Piemonte forever, first in 1967 by becoming one of the first winemakers to release vineyard designated Barbarescos, and again in 1969 when he began experimenting with French barrique aging. At the time, his wines were decidedly modern, as they were and still are fermented in stainless steel for a relatively short three weeks, then aged in barriques for 12 months before finishing in oak casks for another year. Gaja's Barbaresco combines bright fruit with ageworthy structure. Additionally, Gaja makes three single-vineyard wines, each with unique characteristics. Sori San Lorenzo, in the Secondine vineyard, was first released in 1967, and is known to be the most austere and powerful of the cru wines. 1970 marked the first vintage of Sori Tildin, Gaja's plot in the Roncagliette cru, which combines great structure with finesse. Costa Russi, just down the hill from Sori Tildin, is the most round and elegant of the cru wines. From 1996-2011, all the single-vineyard Barbarescos were labelled as Langhe, which allowed for the addition of 5-8% Barbera in order to strengthen the wines' overall acidity and add color. Gaja also makes a Cabernet Sauvignon called Darmagi, which means 'what a shame.' These words were uttered by Angelo's father when he ripped up old Nebbiolo vines to plant the Cabernet.

Barolo

Many agree that Italy's most important red wine is named after the small town of Barolo in the Langhe hills. A wine of great tradition with a somewhat troubled past, it is now produced with modern methods that yield a fresher, cleaner, and more balanced wine. Five villages produce distinct styles: Barolo and La Morra are most delicate and perfumed, Monforte and Serralunga are richer and more structured, while the wines of Castiglione Falletto strike a balance between the two. Regardless of its origin, Barolo always features soaring aromatics that give way to a wine that perfectly balances acidity and finesse with tannin and power.

Barolo

Bartolo Mascarello was one of the great traditional winemakers of Barolo. The winery was founded in 1920 by Bartolo's father, who began purchasing parcels of important vineyards, most notably Cannubi and Rocche dell'Annunziata. The Barolo has always been a multi-vineyard blend. The grapes are co-fermented in cement for around one month, then the wine is aged in large, old botti for two and a half years. These wines are the essence of classic Barolo, and while approachable young, they are most expressive and ethereal after twenty to fifty years.

Barolo

Giuseppe Rinaldi is one of the legends of traditional winemaking in Barolo. He owns land in four vineyards in Barolo, all of which are good enough to be vineyard designates, but in sticking with tradition, he chose to blend them instead. The elegance of Cannubi San Lorenzo is matched with the power of Ravera and the classic dark fruit of Brunate is balanced by the muscular frame of Le Coste. Starting with the 2010 vintage, a new law prohibited the use of vineyard names on blended wines, so Brunate became a single vineyard wine and the other three vineyards were blended together to make a new wine called Tre Tine. Written by wine critic Antonio Galloni in 2008, this quote best describes Beppe' Rinaldi's style; "Although Rinaldi has changed out a few barrels recently, the only concession to anything resembling modernity is an old-fashioned rotary telephone, which seems to genuinely annoy him each time it rings."

Barolo

Since 1970, Giuseppe Mascarello's Barolo Monprivato has been one of the most prized wines in the Langhe. Monprivato is considered by many to be the best vineyard in Castiglione Falletto. The wine is absolutely traditional and consistently offers a balance of beautiful aromatics and elegance without sacrificing structure and power. In 1993, a small subplot of Michet, a virused version of the Lampia clone of Nebbiolo, was vinified separately as a Riserva and named Ca' d' Morissio. Released only in vintages where it is distinctive from Monprivato, it has become one of the iconic wines of Barolo.

Monforte d'Alba

In addition to holdings in Castiglione Falletto, Giuseppe Mascarello has worked with vineyards in Monforte d'Alba for decades. Just across the valley from village, Santo Stefano di Perno is a southwest-facing cru known for making concentrated wines that are deeper, darker, and more lush than those made from Castiglione Falletto. In the 1970s and 1980s, they regularly purchased grapes from Monforte's famed Bussia zone, as well.

Barolo

Monforte d'Alba

Elio Grasso is a small, family-owned winery in Monforte d'Alba. The Gavarini vineyard is a monopole of theirs, and in select vintages it produces two Barolos. In the best vintages, 'Runcot' is made from the lower part of the vineyard, where the round and powerful fruit is aged exclusively in French oak barriques. The highest part of Gavarini is called 'Vigna Chiniera' and is marked by a high amount of limestone in the soil, so the wine tends to be more focused and mineral-driven than 'Runcot'. In addition to the Gavarini vineyard, the Grassos own part of the famous Ginestra cru. These two Barolos are made in a more traditional style, as they are aged in large old oak barrels. Elio Grasso Barolos are always incredibly well-balanced, combining immense power with graceful elegance.

Barolo

Bruno Giacosa's Barolos are some of the most amazing traditionally-made wines anywhere in the world. His ability to craft legendary wines from a plethora of vineyards dispersed across the communes of Barolo sets him apart from much of the competition. Since the mid-1990's, Giacosa has made Barolo only from his own Falsetto vineyard in Serralunga d'Alba, with the exception of the Croera vineyard in La Morra which was introduced only in 2004. The wines Giacosa made from Collina Rionda in the 1970's and 1980's are some of his most highly renowned.

Barolo

The wines of Giacomo Conterno are some of the most traditional and long-lived in Piemonte. Roberto Conterno, Giacomo's grandson, currently makes the wine, but stylistically, little has changed over the generations. Purchased in 1974 and first bottled in 1978, Cascina Francia is the name of the 34.6 acre vineyard in Serralunga d'Alba, from which only two Barolos are produced: Cascina Francia and Monfortino. The latter is a blend of the vineyard's best subplots, and is only released in outstanding vintages. Both are aged in large, old Slavonian oak casks, Cascina Francia for four years, and Monfortino for a minimum of seven. The wines can be tannic and austere when young, but given at least ten years, they consistently develop into profoundly complex, glorious examples of the brilliance Nebbiolo can achieve.

Barolo

Only produced in the best vintages, Monfortino can be a difficult wine to understand. Often remarkably approachable when young, the wine seems to go into a period of dormancy, which, depending on the vintage, can last several decades. At its best, Monfortino is a wine of immense power, longevity and grace, and can hold its own not only with the best of Italy, but with the best wines of the world.

Gaja

First released in 1988, 'Sperss' is a multi-vineyard Barolo from Serralunga d'Alba. Sperss means 'nostalgia' in Piemontese dialect, referring to the Barolos Angelo's father made in the 1950's 'Conteisa' is single-vineyard Barolo coming from the famed Cerequio cru in La Morra. This wine was first bottled in 1996, which was also the year Gaja stopped labelling his cru wines as Barolo and Barbaresco. 'Conteisa' means 'quarrel', referencing the historic dispute between the communes of Barolo and La Morra over the Cerequio land.

Roero & Nebbiolo d'Alba

Just across the Tanaro River from Barolo and Barbaresco is an area called Roero. Also 100% Nebbiolo, Roero differs from the two more famous appellations because of soil. South of the river the soil is dominated by clay and limestone, but in Roero, it is mostly sand. As a result, the wines are more aromatic and elegant, with relatively soft tannins. Nebbiolo d'Alba can also come from other villages just outside Barolo and Barbaresco.

Alto Piemonte

These villages are all located north of the Langhe, where the soil is generally more granitic and the elevations much higher. Every wine listed is Nebbiolo-based, with some being made entirely from this noble variety. These wines are generally less plush than Barolo and Barbaresco, with more perceived acidity, but all the classic Nebbiolo flavors.

Barbera d'Alba

Barbera is a charming red variety that is grown all over Piemonte. It is known for its juicy dark fruit, soft tannins, and mouthwatering acidity, a combination that makes it a fantastic wine for the dinner table. In the Langhe, Barbera often takes a backseat to Nebbiolo, which makes the wines relatively bright and high-toned. Just 45 minutes east of the Langhe, Asti is where Barbera reigns supreme. An absence of Nebbiolo means Barbera is planted in all the best vineyard sites, so the wines from Asti tend to be darker and more plush than their counterparts from Alba.

Dolcetto

One of Italy's most charming native varieties, Dolcetto is the wine drunk daily in Piemonte, and is virtually exclusive to this region. The majority of Dolcettos are produced in the zone of Alba, but because of its popularity, it is planted in seven districts, with the best results found in Alba and Dogliani. Dolcetto d'Alba is generally more delicate and perfumed than the intense and concentrated version from Dogliani. While the use of oak has been attempted over the years, the best Dolcettos are the pure, oak-free, early-drinking styles with their vibrant fruit.

Trentino-Alto Adige

The northern part of the region that borders Austria, known as Alto Adige, is locally called Südtirol. It is home to indigenous varieties, such as Schiava and Lagrein. Schiava is a pleasing, fruity red, while Lagrein is black and chocolatey, with a scent of plums, and bright acidity. The southern part of the region is Trentino, where the grape of choice is Teroldego, which features deep red fruit with aromas of berries, wild cherries, and tar.

Napoleon planted Bordeaux varieties throughout Friuli in the early 1800s and Merlot has established itself as one of the region's true stars. Indigenous varieties like Pignolo, Refosco, Schioppettino, Tazzelenghe, and Terrano also produce exciting and distinctive reds.

Veneto

Valpolicella is produced near the town of Verona and utilizes varieties indigenous to the area. Until recently, Corvina and Corvinone were regarded as the same variety. Corvinone is now used as a complementary grape by some producers. Valpolicella and Amarone use the same blend of varieties, but the grapes for the production of Valpolicella are not partially dried as they are for Amarone. Grapes destined to become Amarone are picked and laid out on mats, where they shrivel and remain for months after harvest. The drying process takes place indoors with good ventilation to prevent the growth of mold is called appassimento. Good Amarone is like no other wine in the world, with scents of cherry, dark fruits, and exotic spices.

Valpolicella

Almost every wine region in the world has one producer who stands as the benchmark for the region, and Giuseppe Quintarelli unquestionably holds that title in Valpolicella. The vineyards are primarily planted to Corvina, Corvinone, and Rondinella, and these three varieties make up the Valpolicella and Amarones. Additionally, the vineyards contain small amounts of Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot, and many others. Primofiore combines Corvina and Corvinone with both Cabernets to serve as an introduction to the house style. Rosso Ca' del Merlo is a similar blend, and it and the Valpolicella Classico both include 50% dried grapes. The Bordeaux varieties take center stage in Alzero, a rare example of foreign varieties undergoing the traditional drying process, appassimento. Recioto della Valpolicella and Amarone are only produced in exceptional vintages, so when they are not made, those grapes become Rosso del Bepi, which is an Amarone in all but name. An Amarone Riserva is made roughly twice per decade. Even more rare is Selezione Giuseppe Quintarelli, which is a selection of Amarone deemed to be truly extraordinary. All the wines are aged exclusively in large, old Slavonian casks in order to allow Quintarelli's mastery of the appassimento technique to shine.

Emilia e Romagna

The province of Emilia is best known for sparkling Lambrusco, while Romagna focuses on Sangiovese. The results vary tremendously, from rich, dark wines made from relatively low-lying clay soils, to more elegant and perfumed expressions from sandstone soils in the foothills of the Apennines.

Chianti Classico

Perhaps the most famous name in Italian wine, Chianti Classico has a long history and a questionable reputation. It is important to understand that Chianti Classico is both a geographic area and the name of a wine. Located roughly between Florence and Siena, this is one of the best terroirs in the world for Sangiovese. Historically, the formula for Chianti Classico was based on Sangiovese and the inclusion of white grapes was required. Many wineries felt the white grapes were diluting the blend and believed the best wine they could make was with 100% Sangiovese. This was not permitted at the time, so the wines were bottled with the humble Vino da Tavola designation. The rules regarding white varieties were eventually changed and international varieties were allowed to be blended with Sangiovese. This led to many dark, extracted, oaky wines that appealed to a more international audience and created a deep divide between those who welcomed the flexibility and those who felt Chianti Classico should represent the purity of Sangiovese. To this day, many wineries use the Toscana IGT for their top Sangiovese made from Chianti Classico. Rather than list them separately, we choose to include them, along with blends including international varieties, in the same section. We believe that all of the following wines are exciting expressions that demonstrate the unique terroir that is Chianti Classico.

Chianti Classico

Montevervine is named after a hilly area in Radda in Chianti, one of the coolest subzones of Chianti Classico. In the 1970s, proprietor Sergio Manetti rebelled against the status quo, which required including white grapes in the Chianti Classico blend. He became a pioneer by bottling his best vineyard, Le Pergole Torte, as a pure expression of Sangiovese. Since he was in violation of the appellation's laws, he was forced to label the wine as Vino da Tavola, or simply, table wine. The wine went on to become one of the most famous wines in Tuscany, and years later when the appellations's regulations changed and allowed Pergole Torte to bear the name Chianti Classico, Manetti held a grudge, and to this day the wine is classified as a humble Toscana IGT. Starting in 1990, Pergole Torte became a selection of the estate's best vineyards. It is fermented in cement and aged in a combination of French oak barrels and large old casks. Despite not using the famous appellation name, Montevervine's Le Pergole Torte is one of the most pure expressions of Sangiovese and one of the most iconic wines made in Chianti Classico.

Chianti Classico

San Giusto a Rentennano can trace its history back to medieval times, but the first two decades of the 21st century have seen the winery become one of the most celebrated in Tuscany. Located in Monti, a subzone of Gaiole in Chianti in the extreme south of Chianti Classico zone, San Giusto farms 31 hectares of vineyards that are spread across various soil types, elevations, and expositions. Their Chianti Classico is 95% Sangiovese with 5% Canaiolo and it is vinified in a combination of small French oak tonneaux and larger neutral casks. Le Baroncole is a similar blend, but it is a selection of barrels with more aging potential. First produced in 1983, Percarlo is pure Sangiovese sourced from the estate's best vineyards. It is aged exclusively in French oak barriques and tonneaux for 20-22 months. While it is remarkably pure, Percarlo is one of the most powerful expressions of Sangiovese in Chianti Classico. Finally, La Ricolma was discovered as an accident, when Merlot was planted in 1991 with the goal of adding fruit and texture to the Chianti Classico. San Giusto did not like how the Merlot blended with the Sangiovese, so it was never used. Instead, the Merlot was vinified similarly to Percarlo and bottled on its own as La Ricolma starting with the 1993 vintage. It has become one of the most acclaimed Merlots in Italy, combining soaring aromatics with plush dark fruit and the structure to age effortlessly for decades.

Montalcino

While Brunello di Montalcino has a short history relative to other Italian wines, it is without a doubt one of Tuscany's most prestigious and expensive wines. In the mid-1800s, the Biondi-Santi family was credited with isolating a clone of Sangiovese and named it Brunello, which means 'little brown one'. Biondi-Santi crafted some legendary wines over many decades, but as recently as 1967, there were only 25 members in the local Consorzio. Their success led to incredible growth, and today there are over 200 wineries working in Montalcino. Known for its power and structure, Brunello tends to be a darker expression of Sangiovese than that found in Chianti Classico to the north. Also 100% Sangiovese, Rosso di Montalcino can be made as a lighter, fresher alternative to Brunello, but some opt for a more powerful style that more closely resembles Brunello itself.

Montalcino

Gianfranco Soldera is one of the most polarizing figures in the world of wine. Universally praised for the quality of his wines, he is somewhat of a rebel within the winemaking community of Montalcino. He purchased a property named Case Basse in the 1970s and planted his first vineyard, which is also called Case Basse, in 1972. One year later he planted the Intistieti vineyard, whose soils are much less fertile than Case Basse. Through the 1990s, it was fairly difficult to determine which vineyard a given wine originated from, but different casks were always bottled separately. Starting with the 2000 vintage, Soldera decided to bottle only one wine every year: a Brunello di Montalcino Riserva. The one exception to that rule is one cask of Brunello that he felt did not have the aging potential his exacting standards required, so he bottled it as Toscana Rosso 'Pegasos'. In Decemer of 2012, tragedy struck. A disgruntled former employee drained every cask in the cellar, sending most of the 2007-2012 vintages down the drain. A small amount of wine from each vintage was salvaged and bottled. As Soldera formally left the consorzio due to countless disagreements primarily stemming from his passion for purity in Sangiovese, all wine released after the 2006 vintage will be labeled Toscana despite its provenance in two of Montalcino's most historic vineyards.

Montepulciano

Best known for Vino Nobile, Montepulciano is an historic town just 45 minutes east of Montalcino. Sangiovese is the most important variety, and it is known locally as Prugnolo Gentile. To bear the name Vino Nobile, wines must contain at least 70% Sangiovese, and while it was very common to include international varieties in the past, many wineries are utilizing a higher percentage of Sangiovese today. At its best, Vino Nobile combines the structure and the power found in Brunello di Montalcino with the finesse of the best Chianti Classico.

Maremma

The winemaking history of this western part of Tuscany, facing the Tirreno Sea, is very new, and void of any traditions. The climate is ideal for growing Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and Syrah. Winemakers are free to experiment without the boundaries imposed by traditions. These wines represent a newer and more international style of Italian winemaking, as they are very flamboyant, seductive, and pleasing.

Umbria

The most exciting wines from this landlocked region come from the town of Montefalco. Sagrantino might be forgotten today if not for the hard work and perseverance of Marco Caprai. His expression of Sagrantino put the grape and the region on the map for the rest of the world. Known for its fierce tannins, Sagrantino is not a wine for the faint of heart. At its best, it delivers dark fruit, firm structure, and a long, dry finish.

Umbria

Not much has changed at the Bea family's farm over the past 500 years. Grapes, olives, fruits, vegetables, and grains are all cultivated organically and winemaking is decidedly hands-off. The most important grape in Montefalco is Sagrantino, a wine known for its powerful structure and dry tannins. Bea has developed a cult-like following for the subtlety and nuance they achieve with such a wild variety, and they express it through multiple wines. Pagliaro is the flagship single-vineyard Sagrantino and yields wines of great concentration and generous fruit. Cerrete is said to be the highest elevation vineyard in all of Montefalco and it offers a uniquely high-toned expression of Sagrantino. Sangiovese is also widely planted in Umbria, and it takes center stage in two single-vineyard blends Bea bottles. Pipparello is 60% Sangiovese, 25% Montepulciano, and 15% Sagrantino and San Valentino is 70% Sangiovese, 15% Montepulciano, and 15% Sagrantino. Finally, Rosso de Veo is young-vine Sagrantino that represents the perfect introduction to the fascinating wines of Paolo Bea.

Lazio

Lazio has emerged as one of the better areas in Italy for Bordeaux varieties, especially Merlot. The indigenous Cesanese makes elegant and earthy wines

Marche

Better known for white wine, Marche makes some fantastic reds as well. Lacrima is an aromatic red grown in the north around Morro d'Alba. Sangiovese is found throughout the region and Montepulciano is prominent in the south near the Abruzzo border.

Abruzzo

Montepulciano is grown all over central Italy, but its best expression can be found in Abruzzo. The wines tend to be powerful and concentrated, often leaning towards the rustic side of the spectrum. At their best, Montepulcianos from Abruzzo can age as well as any other reds from Italy. Cerasuolo d'Abruzzo is the rosé version of Montepulciano. It combines richness and dark color with freshness and soft tannins to resemble a light, refreshing red.

Campania

Aglianico, the noble grape of the south, is produced in several regions with great success. Its best interpretation is found in the zone around the commune of Taurasi. The Mastroberardino family deserves credit for discovering that grapes planted in the upper slopes of Irpinia would deliver a better wine, which is how Taurasi was conceived. There are several Aglianico appellations, but the success of this variety begins and ends with Taurasi. The wines are rich, with loads of dark fruit like plum, raspberry and blackberry, with hints of leather, coffee, and tobacco.

Puglia

The Negroamaro grape, grown on traditional bush-trained vines in the Salento peninsula, provides some of Puglia's best wines. But Primitivo is the region's most famous, thanks to the DNA it shares with Californian Zinfandel. Primitivo makes opulent, juicy reds with soft tannins.

Sicily was perhaps the first of the southern regions to ignite the wine revolution that has drastically changed the landscape of southern Italian wines. Rich with native varieties such as Nero d'Avola, Frappato, Perricone, and Nerello Mascalese, producers are now working very diligently to respect these native grapes while setting new standards in research and development of the land.

Sardegna

Located in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea, Sardegna has been influenced by many cultures throughout its history. Grapes like Carignano (Carignan) and Cannonau (Grenache) most likely came from Spain and France, while the origins of Bovale, Monica, and Pascale are less clear. The wines tend to be ripe and powerful, thanks to Sardegna's warm and sunny climate. They can be vaguely reminiscent of reds from the Southern Rhône Valley in France.

Domestic Red Wines

Pinot Noir

Pinot Noir is considered by many to be the world's greatest variety. Often thriving in cooler climates, Pinot Noir is known for its beautiful core of cherry fruit, gentle structure, and racy acidity. California and Oregon have experienced great success in many different microclimates. From the warmth of the Santa Lucia Highlands and parts of the Russian River Valley, to the marginal areas along the Sonoma Coast and in the Willamette Valley, domestic Pinot Noirs offer an endless array of styles and flavors, and have proved able to stand with the world's best.

Zinfandel & Blends

While genetically identical to Italy's Primitivo, Zinfandel has established itself as a variety unique to California. It typically thrives in warmer microclimates and offers spicy, dark fruit flavors with soft tannins.

Grenache & Southern Rhône Varieties

Grenache is most prominent in the Southern Rhône Valley of France. Rarely vinified on its own, it is usually blended with Syrah, Mourvèdre and many other varieties. Grenache is classically grown in warm climates and offers ripe red cherry fruit and spicy white pepper aromatics.

Syrah & Northern Rhône Blends

Traditionally from France's Northern Rhône Valley, Syrah is thriving all over California. Flavors like blackberry, leather, smoked meats, and bacon fat are typical. Warm climate Syrah tends to emphasize dark fruit, while cooler areas showcase the rustic, gamey flavors Syrah is justifiably famous for.

Cabernet Sauvignon & Blends

Known for dark fruit and firm tannins, Cabernet Sauvignon is the dominant variety in many of the world's most famous wines and is renowned for its ability to age. Cabernet Franc and Merlot are often blended with Cabernet Sauvignon to create complex blends. Cabernet Franc tends to offer savory flavors, like tobacco and spicy bell pepper flavors, while Merlot adds opulence, lush dark fruit, and a smooth, velvety texture. Over the past several decades, California's Bordeaux style blends have passed the test of time and can truly be considered some of the greatest wines in the world.
