

All of the wines on Eli's List, from our cellar and our shop, have been chosen for their ability to express provenance, terroir, and tradition. We look for wines that are pure, natural, and sustainable with organic and/or biodynamic production methods. These are wines that have an integrity and elegance that speaks to us. Our preference is for Old World wines and within that range we narrowly focus on the wines of Burgundy, Champagne, and Piemonte.

What makes us love these small patches of precious earth? We love the Pinot Noir grape, and Burgundy and Champagne both use it predominantly, while Piemonte is about the Nebbiolo grape, very similar to Pinot Noir but with a bit more tannin. These three regions make wines that need to be aged for quite a while to express their potential. Although we don't usually love waiting, the tension and excitement created by anticipation is part of the thrill here. All three regions are waging a battle between modern and traditional wine-making methods. These regions understand the meaning of terroir and its impact on the wine, and are committed to organic and biodynamic farming practices.

At Eli's Table we take pride in offering you wine service that is friendly, knowledgeable, accessible, and interactive. Our goal is to provide a dining experience that encourages discovery, one in which the food and the wine complement each other and where you can comfortably explore.

Note: The letters you see next to each vintage indicate that the wine is biodynamic, organic, sustainable or natural, a serious consideration for us and an important component of our wine program.
