THINGS WE LIKE DRINKING NOW

We look forward shopping the markets to find new offerings for our everchanging menus.
The seasonality is also reflected in our signature cocktails below and the new wine arrivals.
This month we're happy all the new rose wines are coming. So get your pink game going.

Cheers,
Mario & Sal

NEW ARRIVALS

Saint Aubin Blanc 1er Cru Clos du Meix Joseph Colin	☉	2017	$125
Inaugural vintage under his own name, but he's been at the family Domaine Colin for 25+ years. Incredible structure, 40+yr old vines in very steep hill, barrel fermented (25% new), loads of fruit. TRY!
Dolcetto d'Alba Giuseppe Mascarello	☉	2017	$75 $19/glass
100% tradizionale, in concrete vats. This vintage marks the beginning of the change of guards in winemaking to the newer generation with Elena bowl of pasta to pair than this.
We liked it so much we're pouring it by the glass too!

PIEMONTE

GAJA

The Gaja name represents a legacy of cachet, quality, history, innovation and controversy. First to use barriques starting with his 1975 vintage to soften tannins, producing a richer and more concentrated style than tradition at that time. Among first in '67 to bottle single vineyard wines. All wines are recognized for achieving a substantive period of maturation and avidly sought. All bottles purchased upon release, never moved from our cellar, ensuring impeccable storing conditions and maximum enjoyment. Enjoy.

GIACOMO CONTERNO

Bottled one of the first examples of producer-bottled Barolo, after WWI. The Monfortino Riserva Barolo is only made in excellent vintages, aged for at least seven years in very large oak casks called botti. In 1974, Conterno acquired the 16-hectare Cascina Francia site in Serralunga d'Alba.

BARTOLO MASCARELLO

The classically crafted Barolos of Bartolo Mascarello are cult favorites of Barolophiles. Giulio Mascarello established his own cellar in 1919, purchased his own vineyards in key Barolo crus – Cannubi, San Lorenzo and Rué, vinifying and blending the three sites. Bartolo among first to start long battle to defend classically crafted Barolos Today, Bartolo's daughter, Maria Teresa, runs the winery, following traditional methods
